

Senatorial Candidate, Dr. Orly Taitz, Anticipates a Win at Tomorrow's Polls

be Rising in the Polls Thanks to Her Message that Resonates with the People of California

As California heads into the primary elections on Tuesday, June 5th, all eyes are turned on Dr. Orly Taitz, the woman with a mission to defend our freedoms. For the last three consecutive months, Dr. Taitz's poll numbers have steadily risen, putting her on the forefront of both the state and national consciousness.

In a study conducted by Pulse Opinion Research on June 3, 2012, the results showed that Taitz and incumbent Feinstein are the leading two candidates, advancing to the general election in November. According to Dick Morris, voters who are undecided on the day of election typically vote against the incumbent, which would translate to the top spot for Dr. Taitz.

Dr. Taitz has run her campaign on a modest budget and although outspent, her numbers continue to rise, supported not by having the most money to spend, but by the support of the people. Taitz credits her surge in votes to the fact that her "message resonates with the people of California."

Her message is one that Californians are eager to support. With unemployment at an all-time high—as high as 40% in certain areas—Taitz is taking steps towards solutions for the residents of California. She is doing this through:

1. PROPOSING TAX INCENTIVES for companies who are moving business back to the US and hiring American citizens.
2. PROPOSING BUILDING DESALINATION PLANTS, which take ocean water and make it drinkable, thereby solving water shortage issues, helping jobs, and helping agriculture.

Taitz's platform is founded on her strong belief in Californians and the principles that America was founded on. Her full platform can be found online. Taitz anticipates that voters will show their support for her and her platform tomorrow, June 5th, at the polls.
